Do not spoil what you have by desiring what you have not; remember that what you now have was once among the things you only hoped for." "Every great dream begins with a dreamer. Always remember, you have within you the strength, the patience, and the passion to reach for the stars to change the world."

I was born in Cuba and i grew up in Italy,

Fashion is something that i've been around since very young age.

My modeling career started at 17 years old more like a hobby then a job, when it really started to pick was right after the pandemic, when i started to get more modeling gigs.

I dedicated my life to the restaurant, i bartended for several years in different cities and countries until i got into a car accident and i had to abandon that life.

i used to have the clock-in clock-out mind set and really took me a lot of mental effort to change that.

Today i dedicate myself to modeling/ promotion modeling and private events here in Las Vegas fusing my modeling experience with my bartending and costumers skills, bringing on set what several years in different countries taught me.

My dream as a young girl was to be in front of a camera. I have a deep passion for modeling & photography as well as art. All 3 go hand in hand with each other. I was bullied and made fun of when I was in high school, but I never feared the dreams I had regardless of the mean things said to me. I remember telling a group of bullies that I was going to be a model one day. They laughed in my face and made fun of me even more. The mean comments only pushed me and motivated me more than what I already was. Every cruel comment made me more and more determined to chase and catch every dream I ever had to be a model. It was in my 20's I filled out an application for MMA fighting to be a RCG and to my surprise, they called. I worked the weekends and nagged the heck out of the photographers there. I told them I had what it took to be a model. They could see the determination in my eyes. It did not take long before I worked with my first photographer. I was so nervous at my first shoot. I can happily say that today, I am an internationally published model. I have been published in multiple magazines over 120 times. I have been a promotional spokesmodel for a biker magazine which allowed me to work biker events all year long. What started out with me working events turned into people wanting to book me just for meet and greets. I was a cover model for one of the biggest biker magazines in the world and featured 2 more times in the same magazine. I have traveled all over, been booked hundreds of times for events and photoshoots. I could not be more happy or more humbled. This experience was life changing and although it was not easy, I can look in the mirror every day and tell myself,

"You did it." But even though I had dreams and goals and chased and caught them, I will never stop dreaming. I will never stop having goals for myself. I just won't stop. To those who made fun of me in school, who laughed in my face when I shared my goals and dreams, guess what? With a humble heart and much love, "I told you I was going to be a model."

As a mother of 8 children; 3 boys and 5 girls, I never had a chance to do anything other than be a parent and would never change that for the world. I never really had much growing up family wise, so raising my children was a priority for me. As my children began to get older and leave home, 2 boys in the military and stationed a good distance away, some in college but away from home and 3 I'm still raising; I found I had a great deal of free time on my hands to work on myself as well. In October 2020, I decided I wanted a tattoo. (A sleeve), after that sleeve and before leaving the shop; I decided I wanted another sleeve. Eventually my sleeve turned into me wanting a full body tattoo. With the help of my amazing tattoo artist Nate Wallace from Creative Hands tattoo and Piercing, we have spent the last year working on just that. As we began to cover more and more of my body in art, I became more and more comfortable with myself and my body. Since the start of this, I have entered many contests and competitions, I have had many photo shoots, and have come out of a shell I never thought I would escape from, and I have started promoting myself for bigger and better outcomes in life. I have an amazing team of people who are constantly pushing me to do better! Without each and every one of them, I would not be who I am today! Goals in life are important, accomplishing and setting bigger goals are equally important as well. I hope to continue growing as a model and enter as many tattoo competitions as possible. Although these are my goals, I hope to continue to grow and continue to be a strong leader in the female community. I believe no matter what life throws your ways, we all deserve to be the best version of My dreams is that one day this world will be a better place, less hate and more love more of the pay it forward people helping people. Goals, I want to be someone that people can look up to. Be a better me every day. Achievements, and challenges. I think I have achieved alot in my life. Just by overcoming the things I have overcome.. I graduated college when people told me I wouldn't make it through highschool. My challenges. Well.. I lost my entire family. I made my life completely alone. If I could do that anyone can!
