I am an independent model out of WI & IL. I have been modeling for just over 2 years. I am an independent promo model for Harley Davidson and I just competed in The Miss Fashion Global Modeling Competition in November 2021. I love modeling and also do all my own hair and make up. Cosplaying is my favorite besides the crazy creative stuff.

About Jenny...

Jenny Z. Montiel was born in El Salvador in 1974. After leaving war torn El Salvador in 1982 with her parents she grew up in sunny California. Always a rebel without a cause Jenny left her home at age sixteen. She continued to go to school while working a fulltime job. Initially, couch surfing with friends and then finally securing a little studio apartment of her own. While going through school she took odd jobs as cashier, receptionist, elementary school program TA, and administrative assistant moving up the corporate ladder she has been the recipient of National Association of Professional Women Outstanding Excellence & Dedication to Her Profession And The Achievement of Women Award and is is now Operations Manager for her current employer, is a Public Notary Signing Agent and though she considered modeling at a young age she finally checked it off her list at age 47!

Jenny enjoys volunteering specially with kids and did so for many years at her local Boys and Girls Club. Service to others has always brought a high level of satisfaction and she does as much as time allows. In her down time you can find her at the beach or the gym. Most of all Jenny enjoys time with her family. She has recently become a grandmother and is enjoying her role to the fullest. She hopes to continue to model and serve her community as much as possible. Her goal is to travel to as many countries as she can in the next decade.

I am thirty-eight year's old. My dreams along with my goals. Are to keep going to middle schools along with Highschools telling my story. I was a heavy in addiction in drug's. I have been clean for fourteen year's. The kid's can relate to me. I have helped so many kid's fighting there addiction. I have SLE lupus along with cancer. When I get sick I stick it out just to teach and be the role model the kid's need. The kid's will ask me about my tattoos and what they mean to me. I tell the kid's what my tattoos mean. I also help teens who feel like there not good enough. I work with the teen's for as long as it takes. To show them they are perfect. Not everyone is the same. To learn how to love yourself for you. I have had a bad past from being raped as a child by a cop. To living on the streets. This has been a dream of mine to help others.

My dream is to grow, into a place where I can reach and hug the whole world at the same time. I have many entrepreneurial ideas that are coming to fruition now and I plan to share them with whoever is willing to listen. I have had some challenges in the past with my mental health, given a co-morbid diagnosis. However, the ability to overcome this obstacle has felt like a superpower. I want to help others do the same.

Since a child, I wanted to be an OBGYN because then I could say, "I bring life into the world." The fact is, I'm great at math and science. I would probably make a great doctor, however I have a waterfall of ideas. The other side of me oozes and craves anything creative I can get my hands on. I learned that my biggest accomplishment will be bringing life into the world through various creative efforts and businesses.

Today I am a model, actress and business owner. One day I'll write a book about all of the ups and downs, because you really wouldn't believe me. Until then all I know is, I am starting my forever now and can't wait to share that with others.

Taryn DaNeen

I am 30-year-old Taryn DaNeen Caldwell, born in Dayton, Ohio but raised in Greenville, South Carolina. Walking down the runway and being in the hottest fashion magazine is what I've always wanted to do as a career. My mother played a big part in being my inspiration and motivation to become a model. When I was about 3 or 4, she modeled for a local designer in Dayton. She also would drive me back and forth to John Casablancas in North Carolina almost every other weekend when I was in middle school. Her thrive to show me I can make it has stuck with me since.

As the years go by, I focus on school, graduated on time in 2009 and since then I told myself it was time for me to focus on my dream. I've been featured in 3 local fashion shows for Far from

Average Clothing line by Jameelah AKA J. Bluez and Noir by Brie. I've modeled in major fashion shows such as NYFW for H.E.R The Brand, LAFW, Tennessee fashion show by Victoria Henley, and also multiple shows in Columbia, SC for Stoi's Atelier. I have worked with multiple local photographers like Syntaris Davis, Harold Mansell and Briana Ashmore. I am also apart of a modeling team A Diverse Nation. I used to get discouraged over the years, but I believe when its my time to shine, everyone will know who exactly Taryn DaNeen is. I plan to keep striving to the top to be recognized by major designers and modeling agencies.
